The Chic Sheet: Road Test

Melissa Matthews

You wouldn't believe some of the interesting and unique products that come across our desks on a daily basis. Some are instant fits for whatever beauty or fashion stories Amanda and I are working on. Other products are given out to staffers to test for future stories. The most recent item to hit our desks was Cami-Rolls. What's that you ask? It's a white camisole with a built-in layer underneath to tame belly rolls (no joking!). Just tuck in the slimming layer and your ready to go. We both decided to take these tops home to test out for ourselves (who couldn't use a little slimming layer!). I wore mine to lunch with friends and no one noticed the extra layer at all. Plus, it was so comfortable to wear. Once I told them about the top I was wearing everyone wanted to know where to get it. So I decided to spread the news with the world! The cami only comes in white but is available in a range of sizes from XS to XL at camirolls.com. I can honestly say—I'm a fan!
